

Fields

- Cosmochemistry
- Atmospheric Chemistry
- Biogeochemistry
- Organic Geochemistry
- Isotope Geochemistry
- Rock & Mineral Geochemistry
- Petrology
- Solid Earth Geochemistry
- Hydrothermal Geochemistry
- Volcanology
- Marine Chemistry
- Paleoceanography
- Environmental Chemistry
- Limnology
- Geochronology
- Multidisciplinary fields related to geochemistry

The Geochemical Society of Japan

Contact the GSJ

For any information about the GSJ and membership, please visit our website

<http://www.geochem.jp/>

www.geochem.jp

The Geochemical Society of Japan

- The Geochemical Society of Japan (GSJ) was established in 1953, to promote geochemistry in Japan
- Publishing Geochemical Journal, an international peer-reviewed journal since 1966, and Chikyukagaku (Geochemistry), a Japanese journal since 1967
- Current membership: ca. 900 scientists, technologists, and students as of April, 2023
- Organization of Annual Meetings in autumn, and co-organization of Japan Geoscience Union Meetings in spring
- Co-sponsorship of the Goldschmidt Conferences since 2003
- Hosted the Goldschmidt 2003 at Kurashiki and Goldschmidt 2016 at Yokohama
- Organization of short courses, night assemblies, and the special lectures for the general public at the Annual Meetings
- Dispatching lecturers to schools

Membership benefits

■ For all members

Reduced registration fees at the Annual Meetings and the Goldschmidt Conferences
Recognition of scientific excellence through awards (The GSJ Award)
Free publication of job opportunities on the GSJ website
Discounted Article Processing Charge (APC) in Geochemical Journal

■ For young members

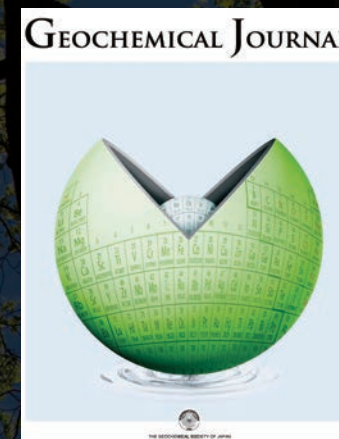

Sponsorship of travel fees abroad, workshops (Torii-Inoue Endowment Grant)
The GSJ Award of Young Scientist, Best Presenter Award, Geochemical Journal Best Student Paper Award

Membership rates

● Student 1 year	5000JPY
● Student 2 years packaged	7000JPY
● Student 3 years packaged	9000JPY
● Professional 1 year	10000JPY
● Senior 1 year	5000JPY
● Supporting 1 year	20000JPY

GSJ Journal

The GSJ publishes Geochemical Journal, an international journal

Fully open-access, online published

Please visit our website when you submit your works to Geochemical Journal!

<https://geochemical-journal.jp/>

